Serving up Summer 2012: New Cafeteria and Family Studies Classrooms!

Issue 9
May 2012

Reflections....

Looking good,
inside and out!

The old Social Studies building is a thing of the past and construction of the new DHS Cafeteria is well underway. With a modern kitchen and great open interior space, the new cafeteria will greatly enhance and revitalize the already successful food service program at Dublin High.

Modernization of the adjacent building is also on track and will house the new Family Studies classrooms including Culinary, Home Ec, Fashion Design, and a teachers' dining area. The new cafeteria and modernization are scheduled to be complete in summer 2012 and ready for you to enjoy beginning with the 2012/13 school year! Be sure to come see what's on the menu!

Coming Attraction: Measure C Master Plan Phase 3B Performing Arts Project

The show must go on! Continuing with the tradition of building great new campus facilities, construction of the DHS Theater and Performing Arts Center and Classroom Project is slated to begin summer 2012. When you return to the campus in the fall, the existing Family Studies building and much of the old cafeteria will have taking their final curtain call. Construction of the new Performing Arts Center will be in progress, in preparation for the big unveiling in winter 2014. What an exciting new addition to the campus!

Baby, take a bow!

Rebuilding of Dublin High has created some great new facilities for students and staff: a new stadium and sports complex; state of the art math and science classroom building; a fantastic library; art classrooms and art gallery infused with natural light; modern admin building, and new academic classrooms. Wow, the campus looks brand new!

A look ahead....

The new cafeteria and Family Studies classrooms will be complete this summer; the performing arts center, a beautiful new quad, and modernization of the old gymnasium are still to come! Watch for more great projects heading your way.

Great students deserve great schools!

GO GAELS!!
